

Theresa Jordan

Several years ago I started looking for some activity that would enhance my post working life. I chose photography and watercolor painting. The last five years I have expanded my interest in nature images - mainly landscapes and local wildlife. Trying to capture the essence of being in the moment is a challenging and exciting process for me. As a side benefit, seeking out different subjects to photograph has led me to really appreciate the many different birds that live in Boulder County. Sharing my efforts with you, the public, is an added dimension in my ongoing attempt to improve. I am enjoying the journey.
